

- Anderson, W., Summerton, D., Sharma, D., & Holmes, S. (2003). The urologist's guide to genital piercing. British Journal of Urology. 91(3). 245-251.
- Armstrong, M. (2004). Caring for the patient with piercings. RN. 67(6). 46-53.
- Bendel, L., Shellock, F., & Steckel, M. (1997). The effect of mechanical deformation on magnetic properties and MRI artifacts of Type 304 & Type 316 L stainless steel. Journal of Magnetic Resonance Imaging. 7(6). 1170-1173.
- Blazys, D. (2003). Patients with body piercings. Journal of Emergency Nursing. 29(1). 44.
- Boock, M. (2004). The hole story. Nursing Spectrum 2004 Career Fitness Guide. 178-180.
- Boucek, C. (2004). More on nasal jewelry. Journal of Clinical Anesthesia. 16(5). 396.
- Brown, D. (2000). Anesthetic considerations of a patient with a tongue piercing, and a safe solution. Anesthesiology. 93. 307-308.
- Caliendo, C., Armstrong, M., & Roberts, A. (2005). Self-reported characteristics of women & men with intimate body piercings. Journal of Advanced Nursing. 49(5). 474-484.
- Emergency Care Research Institute. (2005, June). ECRI audio conference promotes electrosurgery safety. The Risk Management Reporter. 17-18. www.ecri.org
- Fickling, J. & Loeffler, C. (2000). Body jewelry... To remove or not to remove: That is the question. Clinical Information Hotline News. 5(3). www.valleylab.com
- Girgis, Y. (2000). Hypoxia caused by body piercing. Anaesthesia. 55(4). 413.
- Gold, M., Schorzman, C., Murray, P., Downs, J. & Tolentino, G. (2005). Body piercing practices and attitudes among urban adolescents. J Adolesc Health. 36(4). 17-24.
- Greenberg, R. (2002). Facemask, nasal, & oral airway devices. Anesthesiology Clinics of North America. 20(4). 833-861.
- Hadfield-Law, L. (2001). Body piercing: Issues for A&E nurses. Accident & Emergency Nursing. 9. 14-19.
- Jacobs, V., Morrison, J., Paepke, S., & Keichle, M. (2004). Body piercing affecting laparoscopy: Perioperative precautions. Journal of the American Association of Gynecologic Laparoscopy. 11(4). 537-541.
- Jordan, D. (2005, October 1). Engineer: Philips Medical Systems. Seattle, WA. Personal communication.
- Khanna, R., Kumar, S., Raju, B., & Kumar, A. (1999). Body piercing in the accident & emergency department. Journal of Accident & Emergency Medicine. 16(6). 418-421.
- Kuckowski, K. & Benumof, J. (2002). Tongue piercing & obstetric anesthesia: Is there a cause for concern? Journal of Clinical Anesthesia. 14(6). 447-448.

Kuczkowski, K., Benumof, J., Moeller-Bertram, T., & Kotzur, A. (2003). An initially un-noticed piece of nasal jewelry in a parturient: Implications for intraoperative airway management. 15(5). Journal of Clinical Anesthesia. 359-362.

Kuczkowski, K., Benumof, J., & Moeller-Bertram, T. (2004). An initially un-noticed piece of nasal jewelry in a parturient: Implications for intraoperative airway management. (Reply). Journal of Clinical Anesthesia. 16(5). 396.

Larkin, B. (2004). The in's & out's of body piercing. AORN Journal. 79. 333-342.

Mandabach, M., McCann, D., & Thompson, G. (1998). Body art: Another concern for the anesthesiologist. Anesthesiology. 88(1). 279-280.

Mandabach, M., McCann, D., & Thompson, G. (1998). Tongue rings: Just say no. Anesthesiology. 89(5). 1279-1280.

Makkai, T. & McAllister, I. (2001). Prevalence of tattooing & body piercing in the Australian community. Communicable Diseases Intelligence. 25(2). 67-72.

Mayers, L., Judelson, D., Moriarty, B., & Rundell, K. (2002). Prevalence of body art (body piercing & tattooing) in university undergraduates & incidence of medical complications. Mayo Clinic Proceedings. 77(1). 29-34.

Muensterer, O. (2004). Temporary removal of navel piercing jewelry for surgery & imaging studies. Pediatrics. 114. 384-386.

Oyos T. (1998). Intubation sequence for patient presenting with tongue ring. Anesthesiology. 88(1). 279.

Pandit, J. (2000). Potential hazards of radiolucent body art in the tongue. Anesthesia & Analgesia. 91(6). 1564-1565.

Radford, R. (2000). Further hazards of body piercing. Anaesthesia. 55(3). 305.

Reaney, P. (1999). Body piercing causing trouble for doctors.
http://dailynews.yahoo.com/h/nm/19991026/sc/health_bodypiercing_2.html

Rosenberg, A., Young, M., Bernstein, R., & Albert, D. (1998). Tongue rings: Just say no. Anesthesiology. 89(5). 1279-1280.

Symons, I. (2000). Body piercing. Anaesthesia. 55(3). 305.

Thiem, L. (2005). Body piercing: Clinical considerations. Clinician Reviews. 15(1). 30-35.

Ward, J. (2001). Body piercing & MRI scans. The Point. (18). 4.

Weir, E. (2001). Navel gazing: A clinical glimpse at body piercing. Canadian Medical Association Journal. 164(6). 684.

Williams, A. & Southern, S. (2005). Body piercing: to what depths? An unusual case and review of associated problems. Plast Reconstr Surg. 115(3). 50e-54e.

Wise, H. (1999). Hypoxia caused by body piercing. Anaesthesia. 54(11). 1129.